The Mayor of the village opens his door to go for his early morning walk with the dog and was astounded by the millions of tiny ice crystals sparkling in the sun. As they walk the dog pulls him, sniffing the ground, heading toward a path of many footprints in the snow. Perplexed, the Mayor does not know what to think. Fox? Hare? Polar bear? Children? He hurried home to…