

Bear first saw Pierre as he flew in on the back of the sea bird. And then he heard "Bonjour! Bonjour!" and looked to see a young, and very small, person upon the bird's back. It was a good thing that Bear knew a tiny bit of French because he was able to say "Oui?" He couldn't understand more of what the boy was saying other than his name was Pierre, but he could tell by his gestures that he needed a ride. Hop on he said with a grunt and a wave of his head...

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---