The first gathering had happened so long ago that nobody can remember. Peaches, the Grammy of Doris and Gladys, had told them a story her Grammy had told her about the very first gathering. It was a special time for all the little people and their creature friends to come together every year. Doris and Gladys tell the story around the fire of the first gathering. It all started when Francesca and Moth had moved far away across the sea...

