Here in the Gingerbread library live all the books written by elves thoughout time. If you are ever lucky enough to visit you will find the most magical books you will ever read, for when one reads these books the sights, smells and sounds come to life - as long as the book is read within the walls of the library. Today one young elf sits in an overstuffed corner chair reading about...