

Remy stops and asks a gnome if he can have a tiny piece of crystallized ginger. When the gnome finds out the children are on their way to King Winter's palace he gives them some for themselves and a beautifully wrapped package of ginger for King Winter also. It is well known in the land that King Winter has a particular fondness for crystallized ginger and also for...

