

The mice sometimes parade under the ground, in their tunnels and holes so perfectly round. And then they come up so proud and so tall, only up to the ankle of even the small(est) animal.
They don't care and their whiskers wiggle as they sing their song to make Alistair giggle...

