

The feast is amazing, something for all, a gift from every farm - traded for wool. For we have a flock of fun-loving sheep that trade us their wool for friendship and keep. Today the sheep sing a baaaaautiful song because of the rain that poured all night long. The rainflowers bloomed and that's why they sing, because to them they're THE most delectable thing...

