

Maurice and Ali met at the park as we searched for fireflies not long after dark. Suddenly we hear a little 'Hullo!' and we looked and saw him down below. 'I know where they are' says a little hedgehog. 'they are right over here, down in the bog.' And there they were! They sparkled so bright, we all stood in wonder at this magical sight. And forever more the two are the best of friends, bonded by magic and the world of pretend for they tell each other stories of adventures and peril, why this very morning they had visited

