

Grandfather has lived at the top of Windy Hill for all his days, and as a small boy he led his first parade. All of his friends were the gnomes and trolls, and his little sister whom he adored. They spent hours weaving beautiful crowns and giving them to every friend they found. It was a joyous sight for all to see, a boy and a girl and their company. One time...

