The girl's favorite place to be when she isn't outside is her library under the stairs. Here she can sit for hours and read or look at the beautiful books she and her father have collected. Her very favorite book is one about a boy and girl who are just about her own age. They live in the...